WHEN LOVE IS YOUNG

By ROY ROLFE GILSON

NUMBER 11 of the "American Novel Series." It is the story of the awakening of love in the boyhood of the leading character and of its development to the ruling passion in his young manhood. A delightful and very vivid story. It is full of real life and is throughout uncommonly sincere and original.

Post 8vo, ornamented cloth, $1.50

HAWTHORN AND LAVENDER

By W. E. HENLEY

A NEW volume of poems by the author of "A Book of Verse," "The Song of the Sword," "Views and Reviews," etc. These poems have all the poetic fancy and virile imagination that have won for the author his place in the front rank of English poets. The volume is printed from new type on special paper.

A NOTEWORTHY NOVEL

Second Large Edition Now Ready

SIR RICHARD CALMADY

By Lucas Malet

Author of "THE WAGES OF SIN"

"It is not only interesting from first to last, but it is thoroughly well written. I do not know of any English novel of the last twelve months which so thoroughly deserves respectful treatment as does 'Richard Calmady.' It is strong and tender, and it will place the author very high up on the roll of LIVING ENGLISH NOVELISTS."—W. L. Alden in The "Times," N. Y.

"It is an ABSORBING STORY, and no reader will dream of skipping a single page."—Jeannette L. Gilder.

Ralph Connor's Most Conspicuous and Substantial Work

The Man from Glengarry

A Tale of the Ottawa. 12mo, cloth, $1.50

To have written "Black Rock" was to demonstrate genius. To have written "The Sky Pilot" was an achievement worthy of a great literary master. But "The Man from Glengarry" is Ralph Connor's most magnificent effort—thrilling, inspiring and ennobling. It is easily first among the author's works—he has come to full maturity. Everywhere is evident his subtle wit and pathos.

New Books For Young People

Margot,

The Court Shoemaker's Daughter.

By MILLICENT F. MANN. Illustrated by Troy and Margaret Kinney. Small 4to, pp. 200, $1.00 net.

Children appreciate historical romance quite as well as their elders, and in this engaging story they will find one quite to their liking. Margot's father, who is shoemaker to the Court of France in the reign of Louis XIV., is a Huguenot; and when the times of persecution come, little Margot is hurried out of France. She escapes to America, and has many strange adventures in the wilderness. The illustrations are exceptionally graceful and attractive.

Swedish Fairy Tales.

By ANNA WAHLENBERG. Translated by Axel Wahlenberg. Illustrated by Helen M. Armstrong. Small 4to, pp. 150, $1.00 net.

These are fairy stories of the good old-fashioned kind, full of heart and imagination, and sure to delight children. The familiar figures of Fairyland appear—princes, goblins, brownies, peasants and princesses—but every story has an original touch, something which makes the book different from the many that have come before. The lessons they teach, though never forced on the attention, are obvious and good and wholesome. The same originality and imagination are displayed in Miss Armstrong's drawings.

Stories of Enchantment.

By JANE PENTZER MYERS. Illustrated. Small 4to, pp. 150, $1.00 net.

Twelve exceptionally direct and simple little stories, intended for children of ten years or under. They tell how certain boys and girls were carried by enchantment into Fairyland, and what happened to them there. Some of the titles will indicate the graceful fancy which characterizes these sketches: The Ghost Flower; The Corn Fairy; The Little Ghost Who Laughed; Where the River Hides its Pearls; Titania's Maid of Honor. The stories have considerable variety, and some, as the names suggest, deal with Indian life.

Bernardo and Laurette.

Being the Story of Two Little People of the Alps. By MARGUERITE BOUVET, author of "Prince Tip-Top," etc. Illustrated by Helen M. Armstrong. Small 4to, pp. 150, $1.00 net.

Miss Bouvet has a large circle of enthusiastic young admirers who consider a new book from her pen an event of great importance. They will not be disappointed in this lively account of the many adventures that befell little Bernardo and his sister on the long tramp they took from Alsace to Savoy in order to find a home. Miss Armstrong understands how to illustrate Miss Bouvet's stories, and the pictures in this book are some of her best.

Zanzibar Tales.

Told by the Natives of the East Coast of Africa. Freely translated by GEORGE W. BATEMAN. Illustrated. 12mo, pp. 160, $1.00 net.

Nothing seems to amuse young readers more than stories of animals endowed with conversational powers, as testified by the popularity of "Uncle Remus" and "The Jungle Books." Mr. Bateman has discovered among East African folklore some rare material of this kind which he has made into a remarkably diverting book, and one that will make a sensation in the world of juvenile literature. There are a large number of humorous illustrations of all kinds of wild animals.

Maggie McLanehan.

By GULIELMA ZOLLINGER, author of "The Widow O'Callaghan's Boys." Illustrated. 12mo, pp. 200, $1.00 net.

Maggie is a young Irish girl who is thrown on her own resources at an early age, and the book describes her successful efforts to earn a living for herself and her little cousin. She has an unusual amount of courage and good judgment, with a strong and simple character that will appeal forcibly to young readers. The story is written in the same spirit as Miss Zollinger's previous book, "The Widow O'Callaghan's Boys," which has achieved a wide success and become one of the standard works of juvenile fiction.

NOTES IN SEASON.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. publish to-day "A Modern Antæus," by the author of "An Englishwoman's Love Letters," which is bound to revive the puzzling question as to the authorship of last year's literary sensation; "The Making of a Country Home," another story of persons who leave the city, by J. P. Mowbray, author of "A Journey to Nature;"

"Princess Puck," Una L. Silberrad's new novel; and a new illustrated edition of "Bob, Son of Battle," with twenty-four photographs taken from the actual scenes of the delightful story, which is now in its forty-fifth thousand.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish on the 22d inst. "Her First Appearance," by Richard Harding Davis, a dainty and pathetic story of the first appearance of a little girl on the stage, how she made the hit of the performance, and finally came into her own, with illustrations by Gibson and decorations; "When Love is Young," by Roy Rolfe Gilson, which forms Number 11 of the American Novel Series; "Hawthorn and Lavender," a new volume of verse by W. E. Henley; also, "The Baby—his care and training," by Mariana Wheeler, for ten years at the head of the Babies' Hospital of New York.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have ready to-day "Victorian Prose Masters," by W. C. Brownell, who treats of Thackeray, George Eliot, Carlyle, Matthew Arnold, Ruskin, and George Meredith; and a new and enlarged edition of this author's "French Art." Also ready are "The Cathedral, and Other Poems," by Martha Gilbert Dickinson; "A Hermit of Carmel, and Other Poems," by George Santayana; "Essays and Addresses," by Augustine Birrell; and "The Imp and the Angel," by Josephine Dodge Daskam with illustrations of the little hero in knickerbockers, by Bernard J. Rosenmeyer. They will publish shortly in the World's Epoch Makers series, "Mahomet and Mahometanism," by P. De Lacy Johnstone, and "Origen and Greek Patristic Theology," by the Rev. W. Fairweather.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have just issued "Constantinople and Its Problems," by Henry Otis Dwight, dealing with the peoples, customs, religions and progress of Constantinople, a city which is the centre of a world. The author deals with the Mohammedan question, the woman question, the Eastern church, with schools and school teachers and missions and their influence. Dr. Dwight was the N. Y. Tribune's correspondent in Russia during the war between Russia and Turkey. They will publish shortly the fifth series of "Bible Characters," by the Rev. Alexander Whyte, D.D., of Free St. George's Church, Edinburgh. This volume will cover the Apostolic characters, Stephen to Timothy, among them being Paul, Apollos, Onesiphorus, Alexander the Coppersmith and King Agrippa. They also announce a series of devotional meditations by Dr. George Matheson, the blind preacher of Scotland, entitled "Times of Retirement;" also, "Men of Might in India Missions," by Helen H. Holcomb, a sort of personal history covering the entire development of missions in India, from the work of Ziegenbalg, in the eighteenth century, to the death of Samuel H. Kellogg, two years ago. "The Crises of the Christ" is to be the subject of a new series of lectures to be delivered by the Rev. G. Campbell Morgan at the Moody Bible Institute in Chicago this month. They will be published soon after by the Fleming H. Revell Company.

A pleasant little story, dealing with the fortunes of a certain Zorzi, who was a Dalmatian and a glass-worker in Venice at a time when Venetian law made it a criminal offense for a foreigner to learn the jealously guarded art of glass making. Zorzi's audacity, however, did not stop at this, but he dared to love the daughter of his master, Beroviero, one of the master workers in the glass guild and the richest manufacturer on the Island of Murano.—Commercial Advertiser.

The title represents two little boys—one so full of mischief that he is called "the imp," the other so good, that he is known as "the angel." One is in robust health, the other is a sickly pampered little fellow getting little outdoor life. They get to know each other, and share many idle hours. The "imp's" plans for amusement are novel and entertaining.

Intended to give information about the correctness of type-setting, which is not minutely taught in English grammars or clearly explained in technical manuals of printing. The work is the outcome of the author's experience of fifty years as middleman between author and compositor, and in its preparation he has had the aid and advice of many able printers, editors and teachers. The methods suggested by it are those which have the sanction of usage, and are ample warnings against the common errors of printing.

The "Wife" is the daughter of a New England country physician who possessed an amiable form of book madness in addition to other lovable traits of character and professional qualities. Through her father's habit of haunting book sales she meets a young Englishman, whom she marries, with whom she goes abroad for a year of travel. Then supposedly settles down to live the English country life in a rambling stone house in Somerset with a tangled old garden centring around a strange sundial and with Martha Corkle, a severe family servant, for housekeeper.

Since the publication of "Ways of wood folk," and "Wilderness ways" and the more recent "Secrets of the woods," many requests have come to publishers and author for better and more fully illustrated editions of these studies of life in the woods and fields. It is chiefly in answer to this demand that these two volumes "Beasts of the field" and the one following, "Fowls of the air," have been prepared. They include most of the previous sketches, with enough new material to give variety and a wider range of acquaintance with the wood folk.

A tale of adventure, the action taking place in Scotland and France and to some extent upon the sea, the period being 1755. The hero, Paul Greig, inherits from his uncle the so-called shoes of fortune, which have been worn by their late owner in many wanderings and are credited with magic qualities of inspiration and stimulation.

The "First lesson book" is the new title for the improved issue of what has been known as the "Berean beginner's lesson book." The title "Beginners" in many schools is applied to a much lower grade than that for which this book is intended, and the change which has taken place in the practical grading of Sunday schools has made the name somewhat misleading, so that it seems necessary to seek a new title.

In this small book, the publishers present a new treatment of the International Sunday-School Lessons for 1902. There is no pretense that this "Lesson handbook" contains as much matter as the large octavo "Illustrative lesson notes." It is believed, however, that the little book will be a handy volume and a vade mecum to go with one on his daily journeys, and can be used in connection with the "Illustrative lesson notes."

- The purpose of Part I. is to show how Frenchmen of the eighteenth century came to be at odds with the creeds of an old social order and how this quarrel bred a new set of theories which came to be counted fundamental truths. In Part II. the discussion passes over to the next century, there to follow another series of progressive changes resulting in another body of principles leveled against the accepted social order. Finally comes a summary and a comparison of the social with the political theory.

The story takes its title from the struggle in the heart of a beautiful girl just entering womanhood, who tries to please her friends and to gratify her own love of the beauty and luxury that wealth brings by giving her hand to a millionaire suitor when her heart does not go with it.

This work is the result of many years' careful investigation, and has been written with the sincerest wish to help those to whom it may appeal. "The more complex our lives become, the more we need to understand the laws governing the soul's development and to scrutinize every institution which is dealing with the soul without this understanding. The knowledge which is so much needed, and which Mrs. Stone endeavors to bring within the reach of the reader, is knowledge that would enable humanity to carry out a reasonable plan of living, without strewing the path of life with wrecks."

Mrs. Trollope, the mother of Anthony Trollope, arrived in America in 1827, where she remained for more than three years. Upon her return she gave to the public her impressions of our country in the two volumes which are here reprinted from an early edition, now rare. This book, which made a great sensation at the time of its appearance, has a peculiar interest as a photograph of our manners and custom at a period which has passed beyond the recollection of most persons now living.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

NOVEMBER 9, 1901.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

SUBSCRIPTION METHODS IN RETAILING BOOKS.

THE publishers whose offer of prizes for the best "canvasses" of two of their books is noted elsewhere in this issue, confirm the view so often expressed in these columns that if the principles of subscription book-selling were applied by the retail bookseller in pushing the books that have in them the elements of "sellers" the incomes of both booksellers and publishers would be greatly increased. While the firm, in starting this move, have in view their own interests, they are nevertheless doing a service to the trade in general by opening a way for new thought on an old subject. We hear much in these days of the success of "handling books as merchandise;" how much greater the success would be if books were handled as literature by men of brains thoroughly acquainted with what they were offering for sale still remains to be proved. As the head of a large publishing house once said to a colleague who asked him concerning the qualifications of one of his travellers: "Mr. Blank does very well indeed. I can nearly always tell how well he will do; but how much better he might do if he had more knowledge of his stock than he is capable of imbibing—that is another thing."

How true this is also of many a so-called successful salesman in the store we all know.

Every one who has studied the subject in the least knows that bookselling is an art, not a bargain-counter business—that it is, in short, a business for brains. And that a salesman who is trained to "talk" his book, who is able to answer all questions about the book, and can bring before the customer with whom he is talking the points that will most interest him, can sell more books than the one who is able simply to hand down what is called for, with perhaps a few stereotyped remarks, seems clear enough without the necessity of further emphasis. We trust, therefore, that every clerk will fill up some of his spare time with preparing a canvass, not only for the sake of competing for these particular prizes, but for such books as he thinks ought to sell both because of their merit and the profit they should and might yield if properly handled.

THE BOOK SUPPLY COMPANY, of Chicago, has issued a flamboyant circular with such scare heads as "The Battle is Raging," "The Publishers' Combination Arouses Public Indignation," etc. A sample of its argument will be found in its definitions of net and regular books: "Net.—Discounts allowed booksellers limited, (usually 16 2-3 per cent., with exceptions running as high as 25 per cent.) Regular.—Discounts to booksellers based on the value of the publication in conformity with the cost of production, and consistent with supply and demand." It would have strengthened the alleged interviews printed in the circular considerably if the authors of the circular had given the names of the publishers who they claim said they "only joined the association because we were forced to." Who is it that was "forced" to join the association, or who feels that he must remain a member of it against his conviction? Will the Book Supply Company enlighten the book trade on these points?

"It is reported that a woman has begun business, and has the satisfaction of seeing her name on title-pages. Not only is she her own publisher, but she is her own advertising manager and traveller. Why not?"—London Academy.

Why not? That is very likely what four very able women in this country thought some years ago when they started in the publishing business. To Mrs. Uhl, (afterwards Mrs. Ottendorfer,) much of the success of the New Yorker Staats Zeitung is due, for while both the founder of the paper and his successor were able editors, they lacked the shrewd and far-sighted business sense possessed by the woman who directed their affairs. Mrs. Frank Leslie's success is too well known to need more than a mention here. Mrs. Gunter has for years been the directing genius of the Home Publishing Company, and Mrs. Clark, of the Clark Publishing Company, has fairly taken the breath out of her fellow-publishers by the clever tactics by which she has made her books succeed thus far, in spite of the fact that she had to learn every branch of her business as she went along. Not only has Mrs. Clark acted as publisher, but she also has taken a hand at selling her books, first at her store and then on the road, and, last of all, she invented advertising methods that were absolutely unique until they were made commonplace by widespread imitation. The instances we have named belong only to the last half of the nineteenth century. Further back in the history of the United States we might name twenty women, going back no further than Frau Zenger, in New York City, who conducted a publishing business quite as successfully as their male competitors.

AN AMERICAN BIBLIOGRAPHER.

CHARLES SWIFT RICHÉ HILDEBURN.

CHARLES SWIFT RICHÉ HILDEBURN, whose historical and bibliographical work had won for him a prominent place in these studies in this country, as has already been briefly noted by us, died on the 2d of May last, at Bologna, Italy. Born in 1855, in him were united a half dozen strains of blood prominent during the colonial period in Pennsylvania, and these doubtless were the influences which first turned him to antiquarian research. Financial reverses of his father first forced him to take up a commercial career, and after an education at the Episcopal Academy at Philadelphia he entered the service of a firm of wholesale druggists, at the same time pursuing the courses of the College of Pharmacy, from which, in 1874, he obtained his degree. The calling, however, was distasteful to him, and he soon withdrew from it and gave his attention to historical and genealogical work, becoming in 1876 librarian of the Philadelphia Athenæum, which position he held for about ten years. During this time he edited "The Inscriptions in St. Peter's Church, Philadelphia," (Camden, 1879,) and "The Records of Christ Church," (Pennsylvania Magazine of History.) In 1884 he printed his "Issues of the Pennsylvania Press, 1684-1784," in two large quarto volumes, containing nearly five thousand titles, which is a monument of bibliographical industry. He soon announced a similar work for the colony of New York, but this was never completed, though he gave to the public part of the material he had gathered in two monographs, "A List of the Issues of the Press of New York, 1693-1752," (Philadelphia, 1889,) and "Sketches of the Printers and Printing in Colonial New York," (New York, 1895,) and also in a chapter on early printing in New York in Wilson's "Memorial History of the City of New York," (Vol. I.) He likewise compiled the very valuable catalogue of "The Charlemagne Tower Collection of American Colonial Laws," (Philadelphia, 1890,) in the formation of which he had taken a distinguished part. Indeed, his wide antiquarian knowledge made his services to any collector of the utmost value, and the library of the Pennsylvania Historical Society, and such private collections as those of Dr. Thomas Addis Emmet and Clarence E. Bement were much enriched through his assistance. In 1883 he assumed the real editorship of "The Statutes at Large of Pennsylvania," a work which will always be the true monument of his wonderful energy, pains and knowledge, giving to it in truth his life blood, for under the strain his strength failed, and he was compelled to seek for health in Europe, his task but half completed. He married Sarah Elizabeth Winchester, June 12, 1894, who survives him.

P. L. F.

AUTHOR AND AGENT.

THE following views on the literary agent by William Heinemann, the well-known English publisher, are remarkable not only for the clearness and frankness with which the question is discussed, but for the fact that Mr. Heinemann was requested to write them for The Author, the mouthpiece of the English Authors' Society, which has hitherto held opinions on the subject quite contrary to those given below:

"I am asked to write down for The Author my views on the literary agent. I am flattered by this request, and hopeful that the future may produce a much better understanding between authors and publishers, from the very fact that the opinion of a publisher should be considered worth asking by the organ of the Authors' Society. I will give my opinion with perfect frankness, relying upon the good faith of my hosts that I, as the invited guest, shall, although a publisher, be credited with honesty.

"I am opposed to the literary agent from the point of (1) the publisher, (2) the author, and (3) literature.

"First—The Publisher.—(a) Because the literary agent prevents that free and intimate intercourse between publisher and author which is from my experience of unquestioned mutual advantage.

"(b) Because I have not always found literary agents scrupulously honest in their dealings.

"(c) Because I resent the implied imputation that the publisher might take advantage of an author unless his interests are looked after by a person deriving a benefit in the shape of percentages from the party with whom I am doing business.

"(d) Because I do not consider it in the interest of my individual business or in the interest of publishers in general that one of us should be played off against the other, as is the habit and practically the raison d'être of the literary agent.

"(e) Because no author would be so quixotic as to employ a literary agent if he did not hope to get as much more out of the publisher as the agent's commission represents.

"Second—The Author.—(a) Because I believe it to be in many instances of advantage to authors to be in personal communication with their publishers.

"(b) Because I consider it infra dignitatem auctoris to assume that he cannot take care of himself should he really come into contact with an overreaching publisher; he can in an emergency, after all, have recourse to the Authors' Society, or to his solicitor, whose charges, did he all that the agent could do, would be infinitesimal in comparison.

"(c) Because the author's agent is successful only after an author's reputation has been established by the publisher, but never with a young and unknown author, so that he merely comes in for an enormous share of profit at a time when a guinea or two to a solicitor (say the Authors' Society's own) would insure a better drawn agreement and a more responsible management than could be got from an irresponsible author's agent, who extorts percentages which are out of all proportion to the services rendered.

"(d) Because the author's agent fosters in authors the greed for an immediate money return (for this means cash percentages) at the cost of all dignity and artistic repose, pledging the author's time, thought, inspiration and work for years ahead, and making of the author a slave to contracts and a victim to haste and thoughtless waste of his gifts.

"Third—Literature.—(a) Because I do not consider it to be in the interests of literature that books should be put up to auction and sold to the highest bidder among publishers, who may be incompetent to give the best advantages to the book in question.

"(b) Because it is certainly very much against the interests of literature that authors should be pledged and sold body and soul to syndicates and publishers on time bargains years ahead, with no certainty that they can stand the strain and pressure of production, from the point of view of their physical or mental health.

"(c) Because of the fact that it discourages the publisher from taking up new authors, if they are, as soon as he has borne the first risk and launched them, to be put up to public auction; and there can be no doubt that it becomes more difficult for a young author to get a hearing in proportion to the prevalence and success of the parasite that lives on his produce.

"To sum up, on behalf of the publisher, the author and literature, I am of opinion that it is waste of money to keep an agent with emoluments which are enormous in comparison with the services rendered, when a little mutual truthfulness, a little give and take, and, anyhow, a careful solicitor at an ordinary legal fee, would enable publisher and author and literature to do without him."

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

THE AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION, under date of November 1, issued the following circular to the trade:

Information has reached the American Publishers' Association that the New York undersellers, failing to get books in quantity, have established in several of the larger cities and towns, agents who buy for them small quantities of books wherever opportunity offers. As a rule they pay cash and take their purchases with them, giving no name or address.

Have you such a customer?

If so, we beg leave to request that before selling him further supplies you learn his name and address, and if he is a small dealer, whether or not he is purchasing beyond his legitimate requirements.

Kindly bear in mind that only a dealer should receive discount on net books, or is entitled to buy regular books at better than the usual retail price.

Your strict enforcement of these trade regulations is requested to the end that the trade be properly encouraged and protected and sources of supply closed to the undersellers.

The Association feels greatly encouraged by the care shown by all reputable dealers, and again congratulates the trade on the excellent and improving prospect for the complete establishment of the net system.

AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION,

GEORGE S. EMORY, Manager.

The American Baptist Publication Society has been admitted to membership in the American Publishers' Association.

Abraham & Straus, the proprietors of the well-known department store in Brooklyn, N. Y., who have thus far opposed the net rule, have abandoned their position and agreed to abide by the rules of the American Publishers' Association. The trade has therefore been notified that they may again supply this firm with their books. As the proprietor of the Macy firm is largely interested in the Abraham & Straus concern, there is hope that the New York house may also soon abandon its opposition to the net rule.

THE TEXAS BOOK AND NEWSDEALERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE TEXAS BOOK AND NEWSDEALERS' ASSOCIATION held their annual meeting at the Oriental Hotel, Dallas, on October 5, the President, Hugh Perry, of Sherman, in the chair.

On motion a Working Committee was appointed to canvass the book and news trade of Texas with a view of securing the enlistment of every dealer in sympathy with the work of the Association. The committee consists of B. Roberts, of Dallas, chairman; S. Lemly, of Texarkana; T. Pillot, of Houston; John Kerrigan and J. Fred Smith, both of Dallas.

After much general discussion as to the benefit to be derived through the Association, the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the present discounts allowed by the publishers to the retail book-dealers of Texas on adopted school text-books are inadequate to enable the dealers to give the public proper service and the same should be remedied.

The following officers were elected: W. C. Everett, president; E. Lemly, vice-president; John Kerrigan, secretary and treasurer. On motion the officers were also made members of the Executive Committee.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

THE November dinner of the Booksellers' League will be given at the Aldine Association, 111 Fifth Avenue, New York, on the evening of the 13th inst., at 6:30 sharp. The speakers of the evening will be Dr. James M. Ludlow, the author of "Deborah," etc., who will have something to say about "Some of the Perils of Authorship." Mr. Thomas J. Vivian, the author of "Luther Strong," is also expected to be present, and will give "A Peep into an Old Paper." Members who expect to be present must notify Mr. Cass Richardson at E. P. Dutton & Co.'s, 31 West Twenty-third Street. Extra tickets, at $2, may also be had of Mr. Richardson.

OBITUARY NOTES.

CERRO GORDO HOOKS, member of the firm of R. M. Mansford Company, booksellers, Memphis, Tenn., died in that city on October 11, aged thirty-one.

THE REV. DR. KINSLEY TWINING, for a number of years literary editor of The Independent, died on the 4th inst., at New Haven, Conn., at the age of sixty-nine.

JACOB SCHMITT, who for many years kept a bookstore on North Howard Street, Baltimore, Md., died at the Baltimore City Hospital, October 5. Mr. Schmitt was born in Ebenhausen, Hesse-Darmstadt, in 1843, and came to this country in 1853. His parents first settled in Ohio, but shortly before the war removed to Baltimore.

CHARLES WEBSTER SMALL, for the past six years travelling representative for A. L. Burt, principally in the South, West and Canada, died suddenly after an illness of only one day, at his home in Newark, N. J., on the 4th inst. Mr. Small was born in Toronto, Ontario, September 23, 1858, and at the age of twelve was employed in the bookstore of Warwick Brothers. He later travelled for James Campbell & Co. and the Methodist Book and Publishing House, both of Toronto. In 1885 he came to New York and connected himself with George Routledge & Sons. Later he went over to The Cassell Company. In 1895 he joined the staff of A. L. Burt, with whom he was connected until the time of his death.

DR. JOEL PRENTISS BISHOP, the well-known author of legal books, died on the 4th inst., at his home in Cambridge, Mass. He was born in 1814, in Volney, Oswego County, N. Y. He became general business manager, publishing agent, and assistant treasurer of the Anti-Slavery Society, and assistant editor of the Friend of Man, an anti-slavery publication in Utica, N. Y. On April 9, 1844, he was admitted to the Suffolk bar. The following is a list of his books: "Marriage and Divorce," "Marriage, Divorce and Separation," "Criminal Law," "New Criminal Law," "Criminal Procedure," "First Book of the Law," "The Law of Married Women," "Statutory Crimes," "Law of Contracts," "The Written Laws," "Directions and Forms," "Non-Contract Law."

ANTHONY EICKHOFF, at one time a well-known journalist, died on the 6th inst., in New York City, aged seventy-four. He was born in Lippstadt, Westphalia, and came to America at the time of the German Revolution of 1846. In 1848 he founded the St. Louis Zeitung, and later undertook the editorship of The Nordwestliche Demokrat at Dubuque. He came to New York in 1852 to become editor of Die Abendpost. From 1854 to 1856 he edited the New Yorker Staats-Zeitung. During the Civil War he served as a commissary-general for the New York troops. He was elected to the State Legislature in 1863. Ten years later he was elected coroner, and in 1876 was sent to Congress. He was fire commissioner from 1891 to 1896. From 1898 until his death he had been an auditor in the present fire department. Mr. Eickhoff was the author of a work on German immigration, entitled "The German in America."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MAX O'RELL, (Paul Blouet,) arrived in New York on the 6th inst. He will remain in this country for two or three months, and may do some lecturing, he says.

ERNEST SETON-THOMPSON, the well-known artist-author, has legally changed his name to Ernest Thompson Seton, and as he has discarded the hyphen, he desires hereafter to be known as Seton.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made that J. J. Little, the well-known New York printer, will purchase the English shares of Pearson's Magazine and assume Mr. Pearson's place in the business in this country. The active editorial and business management will remain in charge of C. N. Greig, who started the American edition of Pearson's in 1898, and there are no changes contemplated in the present editorial or business staff.

THE discontinuance with the current number of the gilt-edged quarterly periodical, the Anglo-Saxon Review, is announced. Ten numbers dating from June, 1899, have been produced and conducted under the editorship of Lady Randolph Churchill now Mrs. George Cornwallis West. It is said, however, that possibly it is only in its present form that the Review will disappear. Next year may see the birth of a lineal descendant.

The Craftsman is the title of a new monthly the first number of which, dated October, has just been published by The United Crafts, at Eastwood, N. Y. The United Crafts is a guild of cabinet makers, metal and leather workers, whose endeavor it is to promote and to extend the principles established by William Morris, in both the artistic and socialistic sense. The contents of The Craftsman include an interesting study of William Morris and his work; an account of Morris & Company, decorators; "The Opera of 'Patience' and 'the æsthetic movement';" and "Morris and Burne-Jones." A portrait of Morris forms the frontispiece, and five plates show designs of furniture, etc. The subscription price is $2 a year.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CLEVELAND, O.—Vinson & Korner, of Ye Colonial Book Shop, 150 Euclid Avenue, are making a specialty of books on art and architecture, and would be pleased to have catalogues or other information on these subjects.

EAST DUBUQUE, IA.—E. B. Paul has moved his bookstore into the Kinslow Building.

HOPKINSVILLE, KY.—W. H. Davis has opened a bookstore on Main Street.

KNOXVILLE, TENN.—Frank P. Gaut, Joseph P. Gaut, S. A. Ogden, Lewis Tillman and John L. Callaway have incorporated the "Gaut-Ogden Company," to deal in books, stationery, etc., and manufacture same in place of the firm of Ogden Bros., which failed several weeks since and was placed in the hands of a receiver. The capital stock of the new company is placed at $25,000.

NEW YORK CITY.—Kenneth B. Elliman has opened a bookstore at 419 West 118th Street. He will make a specialty of text-books and issues of the Roycroft books of which he has a considerable stock.

NORFOLK, VA.—The Nusbaum Book and Art Co. have made arrangements with two of the leading morning newspapers of this city to publish acknowledgments and criticisms of any of the new books. They will make this a special book department. Copies of any new publication may be sent to the Nusbaum Co. in care of the International News Co., 83 Duane St., New York, thereby saving post.

SOUTH BEND, IND.—Axtel S. Swanson, for a short time in charge of the Macmillan department at A. C. McClurg & Co.'s, has succeeded Mr. Reeder as manager of the Tribune bookstore. Mr. Swanson has been with the Tribune store most of the time for the past nine years up to the middle of September when he resigned to go to Chicago. He entered the service of the Tribune store as an errand boy, liked the work, took naturally to books and by hard and constant study has made himself one of the best posted book men in the state.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY has published No. 2 of its library bulletins, devoted to "Books on Education in the Libraries of Columbia University," a handsomely printed quarto catalogue of 435 pages. The list is compiled and edited by Charles Alexander Nelson, reference librarian, and it includes nearly 14,000 titles of educational works—books, pamphlets, reports, etc.—in every decision of the general subject and its branches. It is a classed list, followed by a careful and detailed index, which is a specially valuable feature. In workmanship and mechanical details it is an admirable example of university publication.

NOTES AND QUERIES.

AS TO ALLEN EBBS.

REGARDING Mr. Allen Ebbs, would say that if my memory serves me right, Mr. Ebbs sailed for Europe on the City of Boston, which went down with all on board. W. WATKINS.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish shortly a new book by Henry B. Fuller, the author of "The Cliff Dwellers," etc., entitled "Under the Skylights," which is said to be a satire on certain art and literary circles in Chicago that will not pass without remonstrance from the "Windy City."

W. B. CONKEY COMPANY are about to issue a new edition of their Margaret Vandegrift series, including "Clover Beach," "Under the Dog Star," and "Holidays at Home." These books contain a number of illustrations and are attractively bound in cloth, with emblematic design in gilt and covers.

THE INFORMANT PUBLISHING Co., Cleveland, O., announce "Some Letters of Alfred Henry the Third—Flooer," apparently catering to the appreciative appetite of the reading public for epistolary composition. These letters are supposed to have been found at a public laundry. They are full of homely philosophy and contagious humor.

HENRY A. DICKERMAN & SON, Boston, report that the first edition of their laughter-exciting book, "What Happened to Wigglesworth," by W. O. Fuller, has been entirely exhausted. The publishers to help along the sale of future editions are offering one hundred dollars for the best reason why every married man should read the book.

CONGDON & BRITNELL, 11 West Richmond Street, Toronto, Canada, have just issued a facsimile reprint of that rare Canadian book "Hochelaga Depicta, the Early History and Present State of the City and Island of Montreal," by Newton Bosworth, F.R.A.S. The edition is limited to 500 copies, numbered and signed, fifty of which are large-paper, extra.

THE FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY are offering a first prize of $50 and a second prize of $25 to the retail bookseller, (proprietor or clerk,) who will prepare the best "canvasses" for either "Tarry Thou Till I Come" or "King Midas." They will also present to the two retail salesmen who by December 31 next will sell at retail the largest number of either of the above-mentioned books a copy of the $26 subscription edition of their "Standard Dictionary."

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. will publish during November: "The Mystery of Mary Stuart," by Andrew Lang; "Mary Rich, Countess of Warwick: Her Family and Friends," (1625-1678), by C. Fell Smith; "The Women of the Salons, and Other French Portraits," by S. G. Tallentyre; "The Girlhood of Queen Victoria," by Mrs. Gerald Gurney; "The Life of Lord Russell of Killowen, the Late Lord Chief Justice of England," by B. Harry O'Brien; "Memoirs and Letters to Her Majesty, Queen Victoria," by Stephen Paget; "Henry Schomberg Kerr: Sailor and Jesuit," by the Hon. Mrs. Maxwell Scott; "Lamarck, the Founder of Evolution," by Alphaeus S. Parkard; and "The Life of William Morris," by J. W. Mackail.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have had rare good luck with four of their recent books. "Lives of the Hunted," Ernest Seton-Thompson's latest book, demanded a first edition of 50,000 copies, and nearly was out of print a week after it was published. Cable's "The Cavalier," started with advance sales under 15,000, but three weeks after the day of publication reached the 40,000 mark. "The Ruling Passion," by Henry van Dyke, the author of those stream and forest classics "Fisherman's Luck" and "Little Rivers," published October 12, had sales up to the 5th inst. to the extent of 30,000 copies. The fourth, "Amos Judd," by J. A. Mitchell, the editor of Life, though published only a few weeks ago, has rounded out a sale of 20,000 copies. In this connection it may be said that the Scribners were compelled to postpone publishing on the week of October 26 in order to allow their wholesale and shipping departments to catch up with the overwhelming mass of orders.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will publish shortly "The Labyrinth of the Worldland the Paradise of the Heart," by Comenius, which because of its many points of resemblance, both in general plan and in the details of narrative, to Bunyan's masterpiece has frequently been named "The Bohemian Pilgrim's Progress." Comenius, (John Amos Komensky,) was born March 28, 1592, in Moravia, and died in Amsterdam November 15, 1670. He was the first to fully develop the educational method. He made important reform in the teaching of languages, and introduced into schools the study of nature. His "Labyrinth of the Worldland," a book of the same exalted piety as Bunyan's, though the work of a man much more widely familiar with the world than the Bedford tinker, was suppressed in Bohemia down to the beginning of the nineteenth century; but the Bohemian peasantry was devoted to it, and the few copies that escaped destruction passed from hand to hand, and the exiles often took their copies with them to foreign lands. The new translator, the Count Lutzow, is a well-known Bohemian scholar and literary man. They will publish at once "Chronicles of the House of Borgia," by Frederic Baron Corvo.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready a long list of the books they announced for Fall publication. In history and biography they have "The Mohawk Valley, its Legends and its History," by W. Max Reid; "Historic Towns of the Western States," edited by Lyman P. Powell, with an introduction by Prof. R. G. Thwaites; "History of the Scotch-Irish Families of America," by Charles A. Hanna, in two volumes; "Mediæval Rome: 1073-1535," by William Miller in the Story of the Nations series; "Henry V., the Typical Mediæval Hero," by Charles L. Kingsford; and "Edward Plantagenet, the English Justinian," by Edward Jenks, in the Heroes of the Nations series; and "Israel Putnam, Pioneer, Ranger, Major-General," by William Farrand Livingston, just added to the American Men of Energy series. The fifth volume is in preparation of the "Writings of James Monroe," and the second volume of the "Writings of James Madison." "Richard Wagner," by W. J. Henderson, forms the initial volume of a group of popular musical biographies; John Coleman Adams has written a life of William Hamilton Gibson; and John M. Ellicott has prepared "The Life of John Ancrum Winslow," who was Commander of the U. S. Steamer "Kearsarge" in her action with the Confederate cruiser "Alabama" during the Civil War.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. bring out this week an armful of books, the leading one being "The Life of James Russell Lowell," by Horace E. Scudder, who has devoted to this work a great deal of time and produced a book which is likely to be one of the standard American biographies. With this appears "The Rights of Man," a careful study of twentieth-century problems, by Dr. Lyman Abbott, who treats the subject from the religious standpoint, and yet with very direct reference to the questions which are now before the American people; a holiday edition of Mrs. Wiggins's story of "A Cathedral Courtship," which has been enlarged by the author and made still more attractive by six designs by Mr. Brock, whose illustrations for "Penelope's Experiences" last year were so very satisfactory; "New Tales of Old Rome" giving an account of the more recent discoveries in the Forum and elsewhere, by Rodolfo Lanciani, with many illustrations and maps; "Our National Parks," by John Muir, who describes the majestic Yellowstone, Yosemite, General Grant and Sequoia Parks with great enthusiasm and scientific knowledge; "Before the Dawn," a striking story of Russian life about thirty years ago, by Edmund Noble and his wife, who was a Russian lady; "A History of Italian Architecture," by Charles A. Cummings, a distinguished architect of Boston; a little book by Mr. Bowker, "Of Business," treating its proper aim and methods in a very luminous way; and a "Life of Bishop Butler," author of the famous "Analogy," by Canon Spooner, of Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents a line.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office should either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

BOOK BOOSTING

NOWADAYS it is safe to assume that unless a book is "boosted" by means of prizes and advertising novelties, it cannot be classed as real literature.

"Graustark" is, we believe, the best novel issued in years, and to impress its literary and artistic merit upon the reading public, we are giving the following prizes:

Prizes, Prizes, Prizes, Prizes.

Many people think the heroine of "Graustark" is the most charming character in recent fiction. To the person who thinks the hardest we will give $500,000.

Forty-six novelists or more have tried to write as good a story as "Graustark" and have failed. To the person who guesses nearest the excuses of each of these authors we will give a hearty cheer.

To the person who can scan the chapter headings of "Graustark" while taking only eight breaths we will give an ovation.

Mr. McCutcheon wrote "Graustark" in 287 days. To the person who tells us in which particular day he wrote the greatest number of words, and if so, why not, we will gladly yield the palm.

Advertising Novelties, Advertising Novelties, Advertising Novelties.

We have a number of choice talking parrots, which have been taught to speak only the one word—"Graustark." There is nothing like a parrot on a stack of books to make a book popular.

We will send on the application of any dealer a corps of bagpipers, who will play "The Graustark March" in front of a store. Pedestrians will have to seek shelter, and they may enter the store.

For window display there is nothing so effective as our wax figure of the villain of "Graustark," which melts every hour.

We will install in any window free of charge our automatic score sign, which registers the sale of "Graustark." It is wound up to add a new cipher every twenty minutes.

A lady in a tank of real water reading "Graustark" under the surface, a juggler juggling eighteen copies of the book simultaneously, and a blind boy reciting the story backward while standing on his head, make splendid window displays, and cannot fail to convince the public that

"Graustark is the best novel of the year"

OUT NOVEMBER 9

By the Author of

"AN ENGLISHWOMAN'S LOVE LETTERS"

A Modern Antæus

This is a most remarkable and strong novel of character. Antæus of Greek mythology was the son of Earth and Water. The modern Antæus (Tristram Gavney by name) is a child of Nature. He lives within himself and develops a weird imagination. His brief school career terminates in triumphant rebellion. Withal, he is manly, wholesome, clean-minded, brave, and altogether lovable fellow.

PUBLISH THIS DAY

JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL

A Biography. By HORACE E. SCUDDER. With Portraits and other Illustrations, and a full Bibliography. 2 vols., crown 8vo, $3.50, net; postpaid, $3.79.

A highly important and delightful biography. The distinguished career of Mr. Lowell as scholar, poet, essayist, humorist, editor, professor, and diplomat, is described fully and with very just appreciation.

THE RIGHTS OF MAN

A Study in Twentieth-Century Problems. By LYMAN ABBOTT, D.D. Crown 8vo, $1.30, net; postage extra.

Dr. Abbott has written a very significant book, discussing forms of government, social institutions, questions of labor, education and religion, with special reference to the problems which now confront the American people.

A CATHEDRAL COURTSHIP

By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN. Holiday Edition, revised and enlarged, with six Illustrations by CHARLES E. BROCK. 12mo, $1.50.

Mrs. Wiggin has added to her delightful story some chapters which make the narrative more complete, and Mr. Brock, whose admirable designs made "Penelope's Experiences" two of the most artistic volumes of the last Holiday season, furnishes six attractive illustrations.

NEW TALES OF OLD ROME

By RODOLFO LANCIANI, author of "Ancient Rome in the Light of Recent Discoveries," etc. Profusely illustrated with Maps and Drawings. 8vo, $5.00 net; postpaid, $5.25.

This book describes the New Discoveries in the Forum and on the Sacra Via, the Sacred Grove of the Arvales, the truth about the Grave of St. Paul, Strange Superstitions, and the Memorials of Jews, English, and Scots in Rome.

OUR NATIONAL PARKS

By JOHN MUIR. Illustrated from photographs. Large crown 8vo, $1.75 net; postage extra.

A book of extraordinary interest dealing with the Yellowstone, Yosemite, General Grant, and Sequoia National Parks; and the wonderful descriptions are supplemented by many photographic views.

BEFORE THE DAWN

A Story of Russian Life. By PIMENOFF-NOBLE. Crown 8vo, $1.50.

The scene of this novel is laid in Russia thirty years ago, and the political excitement of that time, the demands for reform and the denial of it by the government, the plottings and the spy system, the arrest and exile of students, all these are strongly depicted. Under and through all runs a deep current of romance, a love story full of sentiment and pathos.

A HISTORY OF ITALIAN ARCHITECTURE

From the time of Constantine to the Dawn of the Renaissance. By CHARLES A. CUMMINGS. With nearly 500 Illustrations. 2 vols., 8vo, $7.50 net; postpaid, $7.95.

A work of great value and interest by a leading American architect.

They are the equal of the average $1.50 publications in every respect save one, the price, which is just half.

These 75-cent books present the most attractive display ever offered, and are undoubtedly the finest things procurable for boys. The opportunity is unique. Don't pass it.

JUST TWO: But They're Great

D'Artagnan

The Kingmaker

By ALEXANDRE DUMAS

Translated by H. L. Williams

A genuine Dumas story translated direct from a Dumas manuscript and now published in English for the first time. In this thrilling story D'Artagnan is sent on a king-making mission to Portugal, and after a hundred well-fought fights and a display of heroism that dazzles the populace, he succeeds in having a somewhat timid Don Juan proclaimed King of Portugal.

Toothsome Tales

Told in Slang

By BILLY BURGUNDY

A book to catch the eye of the inveterate growler and gladden the heart of the man who laughs; a book for the optimist and the pessimist—and a book that will sell without pushing.

"Toothsome Tales" are really vivid pages from the lives of fascinating women before and behind the footlights—the yarns are dainty and delicious. The book is copiously illustrated by Swinnerton and Outcault, and other great artists; it is attractively bound, and is one of the neatest things published this Fall.

A POWERFUL NOVEL.

The Romance of Gilbert Holmes.

By MARSHALL MONROE KIRKMAN.

SELLING BY THOUSANDS.

"The Romance of Gilbert Holmes" will find a permanent place in twentieth century literature. It is remarkable for the purity of its English; its choice and rhythmic diction; its profound character analyses, and its charming nature descriptions unsurpassed in our language. The exquisite love story that runs through its pages makes the book appeal to the taste and sympathy of all mankind.

The author is the first writer to enshrine our national heroes, Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis, in the legendary lore of our country; to portray them free from the incrustations and scars of politics; to speak of them as they were—tender and true; to reach their inner lives, showing their lofty and ideal aspirations. He strips from them the cerements in which superficial writers and the cold historian have hidden their personality. He speaks of Lincoln as the poet and man, and of Davis in his youth, as the magnificent and chivalrous soul he was. So, too, he portrays the renowned Sac Chieftain, Black Hawk, in colors as vivid as those Cooper would have used.

"The daring venture of introducing these men in a romance has been crowned with success."—The Philadelphia Press

"Told with captivating power."—Rt. Rev. WILLIAM E. McLAREN, Bishop of Chicago.

"A Thanatopsis in Prose."—Boston Post.

"Chaste, pure, elegant."—New York Times.

"Of surpassing interest."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

"Whenever opened something beautiful is found."—Christian Nation, N. Y.

What Happened to Wigglesworth

By W. O. FULLER

Zions Advocate says:

"Mr. Wigglesworth is first, last, and always a grumbling husband, one doubtless of many. In holding up the mirror and giving Mr. Wigglesworth a chance to see himself very clearly, Mr. Fuller has done a most excellent service for the Wigglesworths wherever found."

The publishers have clothed it in a strikingly handsome shape. Typographically it is worthy the heartiest appreciation of the modern exacting critic, with the illustrations adequately clear and well-toned.

What "BOOK NEWS" says of

A Lily of France

A ROMANCE OF THE 16TH CENTURY

By Mrs. Caroline Atwater Mason

"A work of fiction that besides containing much accurate and fascinating history has also so high a moral status and so intense an interesting power as well as such great literary merit, that we must needs predict for it a place among the Topmost Ranks of first-class Fiction—a place that will not only give it present widespread popularity, but will also insure for it future fame among the generations that are yet to be."—Book News, October.

THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE of books in print and for sale July 1, 1876, compiled under the direction of F. LEYFOLDT, and its supplements, 1876-84, 1884-90, 1890-95, and 1895-1900, compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER, aims to present all the bibliographical features of the books in the American market, arranged in the first part alphabetically by both authors and titles, and in the second part alphabetically by subjects.

The Catalogue and its supplementary volumes form the only approximately complete guide in existence to the American books of the day, so arranged as to make reference easy from whatever direction the inquiry may come, whether from that of the author, or the title, or the subject. It not only furnishes the desired information about any particular book of which the consumer is in search, but shows what others there are by the same author or on the same subject in which he is interested. To the bookseller, therefore, it is valuable both in filling orders and in stimulating business; to the librarian, in supplying gaps and proportioning his collection; and to all who are practically concerned with books, in furnishing information which nowhere else is obtainable by so convenient a method, if obtainable at all.

The author-and-title volume of the 1876 volume is out of print. A limited number of the subject volume may be had in half leather binding at $15.

The volume covering the period 1876-84 is also out of print.
